Excerpt: . jewels and costly trinkets: but I could not help remarking, that at their return they were all divested of their finery; and several had even their gowns and coats stript off their backs. A lady, who strutted up in a rich brocaded suit, sneaked back again in an ordinary stuff night-gown: a second retreated with the loss of a diamond solitaire and pearl necklace; and a third, who had bundled up her whole stock of linen, scarce (escaped with what she had upon her back. I observed several gentlemen, who brought their sideboards of plate to be melted down, as it were, into current specie: many had their pockets disburthened of their watches; and some, even among the military gentlemen, were obliged to deliver up their swords. Others f the company marched up, heavy laden with pictures, household goods, and domestic utensils: one carried a spit; another brandished a gridiron; a liiird flourished a frying-pan; while a fourth brought fo my remembrance the old sign of the dog s head in iiie porridge-pot. I saw several trot up merrily with ineir chairs, tables, and other furniture: but 1 could;ot help pitying one poor creature among the rest, vrho, after having stript his own house, even to his)iather-bed, stalked along like a lock-patient, wrapt tp in the blankets, while his wife accompauied him i-oing penance in the sheets. As I was naturally curious to see the inside of the i - -t-eptacle, where...
